If livelier entertainments are desired, then the world-famous yachting marina of Puerto Banús is just 15 minutes along the well-maintained coastal road, where designer shops line the quayside, shoulder-to-shoulder with a host of bars and restaurants serving a dazzling array of cuisines.

Venture a little further, and you will reach Marbella's glorious Golden Mile, one of the priciest slices of real estate in Europe for good reason. The palm-tree-lined boulevard leads to the epicentre of the glamorous life for which this area is famous, with Michelin-starred restaurants and nightclubs where the great and the beautiful congregate.

Of course, the wide golden beach that lines one side of Estepona town stands as a major attraction for both residents and holidaymakers. The Paseo Marítimo, the scenic seaside promenade, stretches uninterrupted along its length and is a perfect location for morning runs, bike rides and moonlit strolls.

Golfers are also well-served, with championship courses such as Real Club de Valderrama and Finca Cortesín an easy drive away, as well as a host of other top-class clubs that can be enjoyed by all skill levels.

Perfect Climate, Perfect Location

The Costa del Sol is one of the most popular destinations in Europe for a myriad of reasons. A magnet for the international jet-set from the 1950s, its appeal is strong and enduring.

One of the most significant draws is that this area is blessed with an enviable climate, enjoying over 300 days of sunshine per year. So even in winter you don't have long to wait for a sunny day to enjoy the beach, have a game of golf or a hike in the beautiful mountains that are the perfect backdrop to this beautiful part of Spain.
